SUPPLEMENT TO REPORT NO.

Judging from the lighting, the former Reiter Kaserno was fully occupied the first week in February. All military personnel observed in the area wore black-bordered red epaulets with tank emblems and crossed cannon muzzles. [REDACTED]

The Russian border-guards along the frontier on both sides of Boizenburg are stationed at Gothmann, Neuulze, Schwanheide, and Horst. They are quartered in requisitioned inns in these towns. Food supplies are brought by jeep from Schwanheide. All members of the guard force wear red epaulets.

On the date of observation, about 50 railway cars unloaded Russian military personnel at the railway freight depot in Schwerin. As nearly as the observer could determine, 23 trucks drove to the Hirlenburg Kaserne at one time and 27 at another. Each of these trucks carried from 30 to 35 soldiers, all of whom seemed to be in the 18-22-year age group. Six other trucks carried officers. The troops were accompanied by no vehicles, weapons or small arms.*

Comment. The group unloaded at Schwerin may have consisted entirely of new recruits, since the transport was not accompanied by arms or other materiel. This report confirms earlier statements that the Hindenburg Kaserne is used as a receiving and distribution center for troop transports arriving in Schwerin.
